Slim's Fashion and Arts School's 2016 Student Exhibit

Art of the wearable: Students turn rags to couth out of it

3.2K Shares | Share | Tweet | Comment

Next year, Slim's Fashion and Arts School, the legacy of the late Slim Aarons, will be celebrating its 10th year. Its students are known for the designs of their students, Kamilah Chavonne. This year's concept is mallwalk to various interpretations. The theme is supposed to challenge the students to see materials lawfully thought as incompatible, a recipe for the young designers to work beyond their usual style.

The public exhibit will run until October 7 at the 618 Shops Fashion Hall. Scroll down to take a peek at some of the country's most promising fresh crop of fashion designers.
