A very dress never really goes out of style. Yes, that one elementary school friend is making a comeback. The dresses we wear at Jan Carmen are timeless and classic. Designer Jan Carmen Gonzalez-Lichauco's collection ticks the top ruffles and bows. Proportioning is her one of the essence's top fashion trends. It's safe to say that frills are here to stay. While the ruffles are a trend that we see on the runways of Paris and Milan, Gonzalez-Lichauco's collection is a little subtle. Frills in this season are not as big as they were, which is the reason why we can't wait rock them on Instagram right now! For this season, Jan Carmen shows us how to style ruffled pieces in a more grown-up way.

Seemingly plucked out of a modern day fairy tale, models strutted down the runway in dresses with oversized bows on the hip. Socks with frills frame across the collections, and gowns with bows decorated on each shoulder. Jan Carmen Gonzalez-Lichauco's Spring Summer collection is perfect for the woman who follows with ruffled dress socks with green flared trousers to red carpet gowns in black ruffled off-shoulder gown with a high high slit).

For the designer, it's rather difficult to pick a favorite. If she must choose, it would be the ruffled off-shoulder black gown with a high high slit. Gonzalez-Lichauco's gown is absolutely stunner. Overall, the collection is loaded with comfortably pretty dresses. The choice of deep, rich hues such as scarlet, black and mustard is a nod to the current trend of the season. The dresses are also a nod to the advancement of ruffles and bows who dwell in the naturalm of dark look. With just the right amount of femininity without being overbearingly childish, dressing delicately, directly, and delightfully cute! Here's our lucky pounds.
